LITERACY STRATEGY 2004 – 2007

	2004	2005	2006	2007
FOCUS AREA: PLANNING IMPLEMENTING	Reading	Writing	Talking & Listening
FOCUS AREA: MONITORING/ REFINING		Reading	Writing	Talking & Listening
FOCUS AREA: EVALUATING			Reading	Writing
ONGOING DEVELOPMENT

A MODEL OF READING

Reading is a complex process which involves interaction between the reader and the language and ideas of the text. It involves readers in drawing upon their existing knowledge of the world, of language and of the written code in order to attend to the visual information of the text. The diagram below indicates visually the elements of reading and their relationships to each other.

The goal of reading is to construct meaning from written text.

PRINCIPLE COMPONENTS OF LITERACY LEARNING AT WAGGA WAGGA PUBLIC SCHOOL

1. AIM

All literacy sessions, K-6, aim to:

- encourage positive attitudes towards learning to, and about, reading;
- develop students' ability to use language effectively;
- enable critical reflection on how language works; and
- develop students' skills and strategies to confidently and competently read a range of literary and factual texts for information and enjoyment.

2. LITERACY SESSIONS

Literacy lessons are consolidated into a comprehensive block or session which, barring unavoidable changes to routines, remains uninterrupted.

In addition to literacy sessions, the key strands of English – reading, writing, talking and listening – are integrated into lessons across all KLA's.

3. SESSION COMPONENTS

The three core strands of English (Talking & Listening, Reading, Writing) are integrated into each literacy session.

Teaching & Learning programs show evidence of opportunities for:

- core skill development;
- guided, modelled and independent learning;
- grouping of students to work at their own level;
- reflection and evaluation of progress;
- explicit quality lessons which systematically address syllabus and school requirements to meet student needs.

4. HOME READING

The Home Reading Program is a key component in developing and building upon basic skills and strategies developed at school. All students are encouraged to participate by borrowing levelled readers to read at home on a nightly basis.

5. COLLECTION AND ANALYSIS OF ASSESSMENT DATA

A variety of assessment strategies (formative, summative and diagnostic) are employed across the school to collect accurate and purposeful information on all students' learning abilities and needs.

Assessment tasks aim to gather data to guide the development of programs within the classroom and across the school. Teachers work together to plan consistent tasks which will provide authentic evidence of students levels of achievement and progress made.

6. PARENTAL INVOLVEMENT

Parents are encouraged to become active partners in the development of fundamental skills and strategies. Parents can help by:

- establishing routines for the completion of homework and home reading;
- attending or reading information given on supporting literacy learning;
- participating in information evenings;
- participating in parent/teacher interviews;
- encouraging and acknowledging their children;
- supporting the school in its initiatives.

READING STAGE STATEMENTS

Taken from English K-6 Syllabus (1998)

EARLY STAGE 1	STAGE 1	STAGE 2	STAGE 3
Students demonstrate a growing understanding of the reading process, which involves integrating a range of skills and strategies while independently reading and viewing texts. Students recognise literary and factual texts. In responding to and discussing texts read aloud by the teacher, they relate what they know about the world and their own experiences to the ideas, events and information in texts.	Students read short literary and factual texts. They recognise the structure and grammar of several types of texts. Students can now interpret and discuss the meanings they find in written and visual texts. They understand that texts are produced by people for different purposes and different audiences and that texts represent real and imaginary experiences in different ways.	Students can read independently a wide range of texts on challenging topics. They recognise and discuss relationships between ideas, information and events in these texts. They have a grasp of simple symbolic meanings and stereotypes and of the purposes and characteristics of different types of texts. They can discuss different interpretations of visual texts.	Students read independently a wide range of texts with increasing complexity. Students try to understand written and visual texts containing unfamiliar concepts and topics, and texts that use language in relatively complex ways. They recognise points of view. They justify their own interpretations by referring to the text and to their own knowledge and experience.

READING OUTCOMES

Learning to Read

These outcomes will be used to plan and assess students' reading of a range of texts and the development of associated reading skills and strategies.

RES1.5 Demonstrates developing reading skills to read short, predictable written texts on familiar topics.	RS1.5 Reads a wider range of texts on less familiar topics with increasing independence and understanding, making connections between own knowledge and experience and information in texts.	RS2.5 Reads independently a wide range of texts on increasingly challenging topics and justifies own interpretation of ideas, information and events.	RS3.5 Reads independently an extensive range of texts with increasing content demands and responds to themes and issues.
RES1.6 Demonstrates developing reading skills and strategies when reading books, dealing with print and comprehending texts.	RS1.6 Draws on an increasing range of skills and strategies when reading and comprehending text.	RS2.6 Uses efficiently an integrated range of skills and strategies when reading and interpreting written texts.	RS3.6 Uses a comprehensive range of skills and strategies appropriate to the type of text being read.

Learning About Reading

These outcomes will be used to plan and assess the development of explicit knowledge of how written language works in context and of how to talk about the structures and features of written language.

RES1.7 Demonstrates an emerging awareness that written and visual texts convey meaning and recognises that there are different kinds of texts that serve different purposes.	RS1.7 Understands that texts are constructed by people and identifies ways in which texts differ according to their purpose, audience and subject matter.	RS2.7 Discusses how writers relate to their readers in different ways, how they create a variety of worlds through language and how they use language to achieve a wide range of purposes.	RS3.7 Critically analyses techniques used by writers to create certain effects, to use language creatively, to position the reader in various ways and to construct different interpretations of experience.
RES1.8 Identifies some basic language structures and features of texts.	RS1.8 Identifies the text structure and basic grammatical features of a limited range of text types.	RS2.8 Discusses the text structure of a range of text types and the grammatical features that are characteristic of those text types.	RS3.8 Identifies the text structure of a wider range of more complex text types and discusses how the characteristic grammatical features work to influence readers' and viewers' understanding of the text.
